What we love about this neighbourhood:

Holborn is a key business district in London and has also developed into a fashionable residential area. It is notable for its beautiful garden squares and proximity to the British Museum. The area is home to some of London's most prestigious universities and colleges, as well as numerous medical institutions – particularly Great Ormond Street Hospital. There is a wide range of great restaurants in the area, ranging from national outlets to neighbourhood favourites. Holborn is an extension of Oxford Street.
